

Title Reinventing Africa into a global supplier of food goods: an analysis of agri-business development, sustainability, supply chain integration and export in developing economies

Author Chisholm Lisa, Wang Yunzeng, Ehlers Jeff, Kwon Seok-Woo and Deolalikar Anil.

Citation Thesis, Master of Business Administration (Economics), University of California, Riverside. 96 pages. 2011

Keywords Agribusiness; Developing economy; Supply chain; Trade

Abstract

This paper explores the commercial potential of indigenous African crops and models a supply chain that integrates small-scale cooperative farms with large-scale cultivation for agricultural export. The research addresses the existing systems' deficiencies while analyzing the prospect for global supply chain expansion for food products sourced from Africa to China. The model seeks to overcome current challenges and enable competitive advantage, as well as infrastructure and economic development.